My website is an introduction to the Phoenix Suns NBA team. It contains several parts, including an overview of the 2023-24 NBA season, Phoenix Suns' roster of the current season, and a recap of its playoff histories of some important seasons in the team's history. It allows for sport fans, especially NBA fans to know more about Phoenix Suns.

The first section is an overview to the new season. The second portion is an introduction to the roster. It include basic information about the important players on the suns team right now. Also, for each player, there's a link that will take you to a page that has a all kinds of statistics about the player. The third section contains four boxes, each containing a recap of suns playoff history of a specific year. Users can delete these boxes if they want less of them showing up, or re-add them later. The extra used is Event-driven DOM Manipulation.